COLONEL STONE'S PLATFORM.

It will be my purpose when elected to so conduct myself as to win the respect and good will of those who have opposed me as well as those who have given me their support.

Anonymous campaign literature is to be ranked with eleven hour campaign cards. No attention should be paid to it.

The Sober Second Thought.

Pensylvania has long been a hot bed of personal and factional political strife and the weapons of one campaign do not differ much from those of any other.

In refreshing contrast with the desperate tactics of the opposition, with its heterogeneous elements temporarily fused by the potent incentives of political hunger and revenge, is the posture of Colonel Stone and his associates on the Republican state ticket.

The Dr. Swallow rally at Scottdale the other night was postponed at the last minute. No one rallied.

Stage Tendencies.

Persons interested in theatrical matters at all must be glad that clean and wholesome plays like those which have been produced in this city this week.

The speech of Booker T. Washington at the Chicago peace jubilee exercises has attracted widespread attention.

southern soldier, that we did not fail you. Now we are going to put you on trial. We are going to prepare ourselves in property, thrift, economy, education and character for the highest duties of citizenship.

The Roosevelt campaign in New York is becoming interesting. The candidate is running it up to himself; is talking to eight and ten audiences a day and is utterly unrestricted in his range of topics.

National Aspects.

At a meeting in Brooklyn on Wednesday night General Benjamin F. Tracy, ex-secretary of the navy, delivered a speech in support of the New York state ticket headed by Theodore Roosevelt which bears directly upon the situation in Pennsylvania and in every other state in the union where a political contest is pending.

For the first time in our national history we are engaged in a great political contest pending a truce in war. We are about to elect a house of representatives and one-third of our senate. That election will either approve and endorse or condemn the policy of the government that has thus far carried on the war.

Public Opinion on Expansion Problem.

THE expansion idea has spread so rapidly since the president came west that it is now beyond control. The Democratic campaign managers have called in their anti-expansion speakers and are having them repeat their speeches to whom it up for denunciation all around.

BETTER KNOWN.

From the Chicago Peace Jubilee Oration Archibishop Ireland. The world today, as never before, knows and confesses the greatness and the power of America.

AN EXPANSIONIST.

It waves in Porto Rico and there's none to say it nay. It flutters in Hawaii, where they've put it up to stay.

AMERICAN TRADE VICTORIES.

From the Times-Herald. The record of exports for the first nine months of the year furnishes striking proof of our growing ascendancy in the markets of the old world.

of this trade was carried in foreign bottoms. In spite of the fact that our manufacturers and exporters were compelled to ship their goods in British bottoms to countries where we enter into direct competition with British producers our sales show a steady increase and have now reached such a figure that Europeans are alarmed at the prospect of our becoming the great trading nation of the globe.

Major General Lawton, military governor of Eastern Cuba, in this country on a leave of absence, corrects a number of false impressions concerning the Cuban insurgents.

JOE WHEELER.

From the Pittsburgh Times. As General Joseph Wheeler sees the evolutions which greet him wherever he goes and reads of the applause which is constantly accorded the mention of his name, he must wonder sometimes whether or he is the same "Joe" Wheeler that he once thought he was.

The Sultan of Turkey gave his arm to the wife of the German emperor at Constantinople the other day. Willie could not return the compliment. His arms would not go around.

People who contend that Uncle Sam has a white elephant on his hands in the Philippines will please remember that Barnum's white elephant proved to be a valuable property.

Sir Hicks-Beach states that England does not desire to humiliate any nation. He therefore asks France to get off the perch at Fashoda as quietly as possible.

Spanish correspondents are evidently trying to convey the impression that it would be better to put Aguinaldo's crown on a reservation.

Chicago has demonstrated that the Windy City can have a first-class jubilee, peace or no peace, and in spite of the weather.

Porto Ricans will soon understand how all good Americans feel on the glorious Fourth.

Della Fox evidently believes there should be a theatrical as well as an army "canteen."

HONEST, CLEAN AND WORTHY.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer. The Republican party in Pennsylvania has left a record which cannot be forgotten from top to bottom. It is perfectly capable of bringing about all the reforms that are necessary.
